AEA - HISTORY

- Established in 1998/1999 to developing cross territory recruitment policies & college fairs
- Made up of all 13 SDA colleges/universities in North America.
- 1999 – College Fairs began
- 2004 – Joint Marketing Committee formed
- 2005 – Joint marketing began
- 2006 – Established evening fairs
- 2008 – Adventist Choice common app

AEA - POLICIES

- Colleges/universities sponsored by a local union have unlimited access to academies located within the sponsoring union, within the limits established by the local union conference offices of education or academies.
- No limits are placed on the number of print or electronic communications (mail, calls, emails) that may be made to the students from colleges/universities.
- A representative of the AEA will organize the dates for the NAD fairs and distribute the information to all academics and colleges/universities

AEA - POLICIES

- The health science colleges and universities (Adventist Health University, Kettering College and Loma Linda University) are encouraged to join the scheduled college fairs. If they are unable to do so because of staffing challenges, they may conduct an academy visit separate from the college fair with permission of the academy.
- Adventist colleges/universities located outside of the NAD may recruit in the division by invitation from AEA with the understanding that schools in their territories can receive reciprocal visits.

AEA - POLICIES

- Scholarships from out-of- territory colleges/universities may be announced at academy graduations by academy personnel, at the discretion of the academy principal.
  - The one exception is Oakwood University, whose staff traditionally has appeared, with permission, at the graduations across the NAD representing the denomination's only historically black college.
  - It is understood that the student receiving the award has applied and been accepted to the same school awarding the scholarship (this applies to Oakwood).
  - No such limits are placed on the colleges within their own unions.

AEA - POLICIES

- Requests by academies for non-recruitment programs (Weeks of Prayer, Sabbath and Vespers speakers, or performances by music, gym, or drama groups) are acceptable. It is understood that these visits are not to include overt recruitment activities.
